

With the exception of a few additional markings of settlements, prairies and trails, this map is an exact copy of the latest official Government map of the Peace River District, and is as accurate as conscientious effort could make it. The perpendicular line is the 120th Meridian and also serves as the boundary between Alberta and British Columbia from where it crosses the Continental Divide to their Northern Boundaries.